First Flash Would Bring About Bloody Conflict Between Leading Kingdoms.

NOTHING BUT TALK HEARD AS YET

Much Question As To Probable Outcome, And Tension Tightens As The Days Go On And New Conditions Become Apparent.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Oct. 9.—That the situation in the east is becoming rapidly more critical than ever is apparent by the anxiety of the foreign office for the latest news from the Balkans.
Troops Start
It is learned today that Austria has made preparations for the mobilization of a portion of its forces along the frontier, where it would be a simple matter to push them forward.
Warships Start
Valletta, Malta, Oct. 9.—Several English warships have been instructed to sail under sealed orders and it is thought their destination is the Turkish island of Lemnos.
No Demonstration
Island of Crete, Oct. 9.—Thus far there has been no warlike demonstration on the part of Turkey relative to the declaration of freedom by the Greeks and matters relative to the union with the Greek Kingdom are progressing.
Wait News
Sofia, Oct. 9.—The Bulgarian officials are still waiting results, but it is known that the army is ready for instant service and can be thrown across the boundary in quick order.
Still Angry
Belgrade, Oct. 9.—The Serbians are still demanding that war be declared against Austria for the seizure of Bosnia and a demand and even threats have been made against King Peter for his attitude.
No Drawback
Vienna, Oct. 9.—The Austrian officials claim that they are making no arrangements for war, but it has been learned that secret orders have been sent out to different corps commanders.

NARROW ESCAPE IN RELIABILITY RUN

John De Long, Formerly of Janesville, In Auto Struck by Electric Car.

John De Long, formerly of this city, who is now connected with the sporting department of the Chicago Tribune, was in a Pierce Arrow car which was struck by a West End Ind. electric car yesterday during the 1,000-mile reliability run.
Both slowed up and then started forward at the same time. The driver of the auto turned the car to one side and it escaped with a broken lamp and a battered fender. The motor man and the driver of the car were equally to blame. The occupants of the machine besides Mr. Jay and Driver Hoffman were John De Long, Philip J. McKenna, Fred Wollin of Duluth, Minn.; Observer J. H. Seagraves, and another. The passengers attribute their narrow escape from possible injury to the prompt action of Driver Hoffman in steering clear of danger.
Seven hundred and sixty-one miles of the run were completed yesterday and ten cars still have perfect scores. The Apperson was penalized ten points for breaking the bonnet seal and twelve points for work on the oiler belt. The Mueson was charged 68 points for breaking the bonnet seal and work on the road.
Yesterday's run was 257.2 miles and on account of the rain and cold was one of the hardest in the entire schedule.

DOWN FROM EDGERTON
ON TENNIS MATCHES

Y. M. C. A. Tennis Club Met Visitors from Edgerton This Afternoon.

Eight members of the Edgerton Tennis club came down to Janesville this morning to play all-day matches with the Y. M. C. A. Tennis club. The visitors were Messrs. C. L. Catlin, L. A. Parr, R. E. Wright, William Hadden, L. H. Town, W. P. Mahaffey, C. C. Whitton and Dr. H. A. Korman. Mrs. L. C. Whitton and Mrs. Althous accompanied the players and spent the day here.
The players took a little workout this morning, which was followed by a luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. building, of which the visitors and the members of the Y. M. C. A. club partook. This afternoon the men were matched and played. Among the local players were Prof. J. S. Taylor, Henry Carpenter, H. S. and A. P. Lovejoy, Dr. Volcott, J. C. Glime, Herbert Helms and F. E. Williams.
The visitors returned this evening.

OLD FREIGHT YARDS
WILL BE ABANDONED

All of the Switching Tracks at the Five Points, but Four, Will Be Torn Out—Trains Run Through to New Yards.

Bulletins have been posted at the North-Western depot notifying the railroad men that the old yard at Janesville will be abandoned for receiving and delivering freight. This is made necessary on account of the changes which will be made in the tracks at the yards. All of the extra tracks except the merchandise houses and team and passing tracks will be torn up soon and in place of them one main track there will be two, one for trains northbound and one for southbound trains. Besides the main tracks two freight tracks will be laid through, but only house cars will be allowed to stop at Janesville. Dead freight trains on the Madison Division will be delivered at the new yards instead of at Harvard.

TAXABLE VALUE OF
COUNTY INCREASES

Tabulated Report of County Clerk Shows Increase to the Amount of $451,810.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Montreal, Wis., Oct. 9.—There is nearly $500,000 more taxable property in Green County this year than there was in 1907, according to the tabular statements being compiled by County Clerk J. M. Stangor from the data sent in by the assessors of the county. To be exact, the assessed property, both real estate and personal property, is $451,810 more than it was the year before. The valuation of all taxable property in the county this year is $21,209,810. The valuation of personal property is $39,594 greater this year than it was on May 1, 1907.
Montreal faces the race suicide problem in a slight degree, there being nine more deaths than births in the city between Oct. 1, 1907, and Oct. 1, 1908, according to the statistics compiled by Health Officer W. H. Grout. There were fifty-nine deaths and fifty births in the city during the year ending Oct. 1 when the state law on vital statistics had been in effect one year. There were thirty-three marriages in the city during the year.
Paul Knoll of Churno township has paid in his fine of $25 and costs amounting to $40, having been convicted of delivering milk below standard to the Keweenaw cheese factory south of the city.
Frank Metcalf, aged 24 years, of Cadiz township, and Miss Anna Krueger, aged 19 years, of Jordan township, have been granted a marriage license.

PAVING BONDS SOLD TO FRANK JACKMAN

Offer of $16 Premium on the $1,378 Issue of Five-year Six Per Cent Was Best Submitted.
Bids for the purchase of the $1,378.11 East Milwaukee street paving bonds were opened yesterday. Frank H. Jackman's offer of $16 premium was the most advantageous to the city and was accepted. The bonds run for five years and pay 6 per cent interest, annually.

Musical Program Was Feature of Entertainment Given at Presbyterian Church Last Night.
Three hundred attended the quarterly social given in the Presbyterian church parlors last evening. The program included vocal solos by Mrs. John G. Bedford and Ronald A. A. and a conversational musical recitation by Prof. J. S. Taylor, accompanied by Mrs. W. T. Sherer. Refreshments were served and a delightful evening was enjoyed by all.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS

Had a Stroke: Mrs. J. W. Carpenter of 201 Rayline street, who suffered a stroke of paralysis a week ago, remains about the same. Her condition has changed but little since she was stricken.
Granted Divorce: Judge Grimm this morning granted a divorce to Elizabeth Wall from her husband, William Wall. The trial of the case, Haineside vs. Haineside, et al, was begun this morning and adjourned until Tuesday morning. Judge Grimm returned to Jefferson this noon.
Attachment Proceedings: Attachment proceedings brought by the Chas. Donnelly contracting company against George H. Castle and Charles I. Sloan came up before Judge Tallman in Justice court today. The plaintiff seeks a warrant of attachment against saloon interests in Milwaukee and tobacco raised on the Sloan farm in Rock county.

At this stage of the game comes the deluge of campaign literature.

HUGE DELEGATION
WILL BE PRESENT

4,000 Expected to Gather For Missionary Convention in New Orleans.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New Orleans, La., Oct. 9.—The international missionary convention of the Churches of Christ (Disciples), one of the largest religious gatherings of the year in point of attendance, has opened in New Orleans for a session of six days. It was estimated at the convention headquarters this morning that fully four thousand delegates had arrived in the city. Between one and two thousand more are expected before the real business of the convention is taken up tomorrow. They come from every state and territory of the Union and include ministers, educators, merchants and men prominent in public life. Also in attendance are a number of noted missionaries recently returned from foreign fields.

NEW MOTOR PARKWAY WAS OPENED TODAY

Vanderbilt Cup Race Will Be Held on This Track Later On—Races Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, October 9.—The new Long Island Motor Parkway, recently completed near the location of the old Mineola racing course, will be formally opened tomorrow with a number of non-professional automobile races, thus giving a fair test to the new course, upon which the Vanderbilt Cup race will be held later on. According to the program for tomorrow's event there will be five sweepstake races for stock cars, classified according to their selling price. The races will take place simultaneously and will begin at nine o'clock in the morning.
The Motor Parkway Sweepstakes will be for cars selling for more than $1,000, over a distance of 250 miles, for a prize of $4,000; the Meadowbrook Sweepstakes will be for cars selling between $500 and $1,000; distance and stake will be the same as in the first race. The Garden City Sweepstakes will be for cars selling at $2,000 to $3,000, over a distance of 200 miles and for a prize of $3,000. The Jericho Sweepstakes is open to cars selling at $1,000 to $2,000, will be over a distance of 150 miles and for a prize of $2,000. The Nassau Sweepstakes will be for cars selling at less than $1,000, will be over a distance of 100 miles and for a prize of $1,000. After the conclusion of these races there will be a match race between Hurry Payne Whitney in his 120-horse power Mercedes and Foxhall Keo in his 115-horse power Brastor. Both machines are expected to take part in the contest for the Vanderbilt Cup.
The new course is expected to be the fastest ever prepared for automobile racing. There are no up grades of any consequence on the course and there are many stretches where it will be possible to gain a speed of seventy or more miles an hour. The cement portion of the course is 28 feet wide and crosses all intersecting railroads and highways overhead by cement viaducts. All turns along the course are properly rounded and banked, so that it will not be necessary for the racers to diminish their speed upon reaching the turns.

FRIENDS SURPRISE
MR. AND MRS. ROSS

Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary of Host and Hostess Properly Observed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rock, Oct. 8.—About one hundred and fifty friends and relatives gave a very pleasant surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross Sunday, Oct. 4, it being the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of the host and hostess. A bountiful dinner was served on the lawn. Upon their departure the guests presented Mr. and Mrs. Ross with the sum of $30 as a remembrance of the occasion.

37TH ANNIVERSARY OF CHICAGO FIRE

Old Settlers and Pioneers Hold Meetings to Recall Days of Great Conflagration.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9.—Today was the thirty-seventh anniversary of the great Chicago fire, one of the most disastrous conflagrations in the history of modern times. The event is not generally celebrated, but several societies, among them the Old Settlers and Pioneers, always hold anniversary meetings to exchange reminiscences of the exciting events that followed the act of Mrs. O'Leary's famous cow in kicking over the burning kerosene lamp in its stable on De-Koven street.
The great Chicago fire burned about twenty-four hours and during that time destroyed within a district about four miles long and one mile wide 18,000 buildings, including the most pretentious structures in the business section, burned out about 100 lives and altogether destroyed property to the value of $200,000,000.

HISTORICAL PAGEANT
IN THE QUAKER CITY

Climax of Founders' Week Celebration Reached Today in Philadelphia.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—The climax of the Founders' Week celebration in Philadelphia was reached today in the great historical pageant, the first of its kind to be presented in any city of the United States. Several scores of elaborate and costly floats and about 5,000 characters, in costume, were used to illustrate the history of Philadelphia from the time of the first Swedish and Dutch settlements to the present time.

BLIND PIG OPERATOR
CONVICTED BY JURY

Broodhead Man Sentenced to Pay a Fine of $100 for Violating the Laws.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Brookhead, Oct. 9.—Fred Combs, the young man who was arrested for selling liquor illegally, was brought before Justice Charles Skidmore on Wednesday, the case being continued until Thursday, when he was given a jury trial. After being out but a few moments the jury returned a verdict of guilty and a fine of $100 and costs amounting in all to $124.11 was imposed. Non-payment of the fine lands him in jail for three months.
A young Chicago fellow named John F. Davis, who came here a number of weeks ago and who posed as a single man, was caught by a lady claiming to be his wife, who arrived with a warrant for his arrest on Wednesday. He has not been found however.
The local firemen are planning for their annual Thanksgiving dance. There will be a picnic social this evening at Poplar Grove schoolhouse.
A birthday dinner was given on Wednesday for Mrs. Nancy Harmon of Monroe at the home of her brother, J. N. Davis, in this city. The occasion was her sixtieth birthday. She is still hale and hearty.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Funk returned yesterday from Wilmet, S. D., where they have been visiting their daughter.
Miss Mable Moore of Manchester, S. D., is here on a visit to relatives.

CARDINAL MERRY DEL VAL
MAY RETIRE FROM POST

Papal Secretary Of State Contemplates Withdrawal From Position.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rome, Oct. 9.—The probable retirement of Cardinal Merry del Val from the all-important post of papal secretary of state, which is said to have been brought about by representations made to the Vatican by American and English prelates, adds another argument to the contention that the genius of diplomacy, like that of poetry and oratory, is heaven born, something which careful nursing in the most favorable atmosphere cannot produce.
When young Mgr. Rafael Merry del Val, as he then was, visited America in 1896, entrusted with the task of ironing out the religious census made in Canada's politics by the Manitoba school of dispute, his first important mission, a distinguished American lawyer, who met the Papal Ablegate twice, said of him: "Mr. Merry del Val is diplomacy personified and idealized."

Other persons well qualified to judge expressed the same opinion of the diplomatic abilities of the young papal minister. When it was announced in 1903 that the new Pope Pius X. had selected as a new secretary of state this same Merry del Val, those acquainted with his qualifications expressed no surprise. It was, they said, an instance of extraordinary diplomatic talent amounting to its proper pedestal.
These same wise heads who recognized the young ecclesiastic's powers were rather surprised, therefore, when they learned the past week that the retirement of Merry del Val was imminent and that he probably would be succeeded by Cardinal Rampolla, who formerly held the office of papal secretary of state.
Much regret is expressed here over the apparent failure of Merry del Val to win his spurs in the higher diplomatic ranks. If he is not possessed of the finely given diplomatic genius, as wisely given, he is at least a high type of his class in the world unexcelled in that sort of acrobatics, but he has the stands at the head of the list. He is a diplomat by birth, predilection, education and training. His father was the Spanish ambassador in London when Merry del Val was bornings.
The responsibilities and difficulties of Merry del Val's office, particularly since the rupture with France, may be urged as an explanation of his shortcomings. Of all the diplomatic posts in the world, that of papal secretary of state unquestionably requires the highest degree of diplomatic ability properly to discharge its functions. Other secretaries of state have succumbed to their demands, and they can negotiate with the practical international currency of military or commercial favors and concessions.
The papal secretary of state, however, is the pope's army and navy and treasury. What he wants he must obtain by a skillful show of right, and for diplomatic concessions he must offer mutual advantages, sometimes moral, sometimes spiritual, sometimes sentimental, but always intangible. The Church having spiritual subjects all over the world, and comprising two-fifths of Christendom, the secretary must preserve, if possible, friendly relations with all nations, although the nations themselves are in constant quarrel. He is the mediator in all events seem to prove, he is as high in this whirlwind of diplomatic "balls" as Merry del Val's high qualifications in that sort of acrobatics, but he has also his vulnerable points, and recent circumstances and events have been precisely those best calculated to bring out his diplomatic shortcomings when Merry del Val was bornings.

REBUFF FOR COL. STEWART

"ARIZONA EXILE" NOT ALLOWED TO SUMMON WITNESSES.

Members of Medical Corps Tell Retiring Board Officer is Afflicted with Heart Disease.

Washington, Oct. 9.—For almost four hours Thursday Col. W. F. Stewart of the army, who has come to be known as the "Arizona Exile," struggled in vain with the retiring board, before which he has been ordered, to obtain permission to summon witnesses to prove that he is not incapacitated for army service and that therefore he should not be arbitrarily retired.

It was not until after the verbal testimony of Col. W. H. Arthur and Maj. Guy L. Edde of the medical corps, and who are members of the retiring board, that Col. Stewart preferred his request for the summoning of other witnesses. He gave the names of 13 witnesses whom he desired to have called and when he failed to obtain the board's permission to that end, his attorney announced that the colonel himself would take the stand in support of his plea that he is capable of performing the duties of a colonel in the coast artillery.

When the board convened J. W. Latimer, counsel for Col. Stewart, proceeded to cross-examine Col. Arthur and Maj. Edde regarding their report as the medical experts of the board on the condition of Col. Stewart's health. Both of them stated that Col. Stewart is afflicted with heart disease to such an extent that any overexertion might result disastrously to him. The fact was brought out that Col. Stewart has been a victim of heart disease for the past 35 years, and reference was made to a document on file in the war department showing that as early as 1877 he had requested to be excused from participation in an Indian expedition because of an affection of the heart and rheumatism.

Mr. Latimer made a request that Col. Stewart should be permitted to make the 90-mile ride required by the military authorities and to follow it with the walk which is required as an alternative for the ride, but the request was denied.

The board met again Friday.

MATRIMONIAL.

La Shelle-Chamberlain.—Last evening at six o'clock at the Methodist parsonage Geo. L. Chamberlain of Deloit and Mary E. La Shelle of Rock City, Ill., were married by the Rev. J. H. Tippet, a special permit having been secured. Mr. La Shelle, the father of the bride, and Mrs. La Shelle, the bride's sister-in-law, acted as witnesses. The groom is well known in Deloit, where he is in the ice business.

Women in French Factories.—Women work in many of the manufacturing in France, about 40 being employed in the Do Dion works at Draper lathes. It is the first time that women have been intrusted with high-grade machines in that country. One woman was found who had worked at a Gleason gear-cutter for four years steadily, with the exception of a few weeks when she was injured.

What Country Dwellers Need.—A third of our population is urban; the rest is more or less rural. What the country dwellers need to make them happy are religion, education and material prosperity. The farms cannot employ as many laborers per acre as they did before the coming of agricultural machinery. Therefore they must either raise fewer children or export some of their population to the cities.—Harper's Weekly.

God's Promise to David.—I Chron. xvii.

Golden Text—There hath not failed one word of all his good promises. 1 Kings, viii:55.

Verses 1-2—Should we be as careful for the condition of God's House as we are for our own?

Should God's House be as good or better than the average home of the people?

Verses 3-4—Why did the Lord speak to Nathan to give his message to David, and not to David direct? Give your conception of how God speaks to Nathan. Did He use actual words with sounds which struck the outward ear, or did He use words of any sort?

If a gets a message from God for H, how may H know that the message is from God?

Why would God not permit David to build him an house?

Verses 5-6—What sort of a place of worship did the Israelites have up to this time?

So far as God is concerned, and other things being equal, is a tent, or a concert hall, or the open air, just as sacred a place for a devout people to worship in, as a church formally built and dedicated for that purpose?

LOCAL PEOPLE INTERESTED IN APPROACHING MARRIAGE IN THE CITY OF MADISON.

Miss Martha Edith Pound and Marshall Hanks are to be married at the Delta Gamma House on Oct. 27.

From Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Pound of Madison a number of Janesville people have received invitations to the wedding of their daughter, Miss Martha Edith Pound, and Marshall Hanks, which takes place at the Delta Gamma society house at eight o'clock on Thursday evening, October 27. Saturday OCTOBER 10TH.

Something Extra Special in Cotton Blankets 250 Pairs of Heavy Cotton Blankets, Large Size, 11-4, in White, Gray and Tan Colors

The names of these blankets are Glenora and Trojan. They have beautiful borders, blue, pink or red. We call your attention to the superior finish of these blankets, which is obtained by a new German process. Not a particle of waste cotton is used in the manufacture of these blankets. It is called the German finish which is very soft and does not rough up. They are sold in many parts of the country at $1.25 per pair. We could not buy them today, as the mill is all sold up. 95c

For Saturday special we put them on sale at 95c

In addition to this special, we wish to call your attention to our line of Cotton Blankets generally, comprising the greatest cotton blankets for the money we have ever offered. We start the fall trade with the largest stock we have ever shown. We have sifted out from our lines every blanket that we do not consider a good value and the numbers we offer we feel safe in saying cannot be matched elsewhere. It will pay you to see our Algiers 11-4 blanket, white with blue and pink borders, at 75c a pair.

Our Trophy 11-4 blanket in gray with blue and pink borders, also our Glysey 11-4 gray blanket, both at $1.25.

Our Yantic 11-4 blanket in gray with blue and pink borders and our No. 2126 11-4 blanket in gray and tan, both at $1.50.

At $2.00 the blankets we offer are remarkable. The one we emphasize is our Australian Blanket. A blanket so good that small dealers in some parts of the country get $2.75 for. Large size 12-4, in white only. These blankets are made of what is called strict good middling cotton. Contains no waste, lint or other inferior fibre and finished by the German process. Weighs nearly six pounds.

Other $2.00 blankets, size 11-4, which we consider extra good are the Cordova, superior wool finish, heavy twilled, silk bound, in gray and tan with blue and pink borders, and our Victorian 11-4 Scotch plaids, twilled in German finish.

Another $2.00 blanket is our Nipon-to-wool, size 60x80 inches, in white, tan, and gray, with blue and pink borders, look like wool, feel like wool and are hard to tell from wool. They are extra heavy, German finish, but soft and downy, wash nicely and do not rough up. This blanket is also made in a size 72x84 inches which we have marked special at $2.50 per pair.

You will notice today we are simply mentioning our cotton blankets and will leave our wools until a later date, although we have everything one could wish for.

Call Saturday and buy all you need of the 95c blankets.

Science and Invention

A PORTABLE DESK

Can Be Folded Up and Carried About as a Suit Case.

If the Illinois man who invented the portable desk is not a traveling man, he is a good friend of the family. Also he has added to the comfort of flat dwellers. Closed, the desk is about the size and shape of a dress suit case, which it closely resembles. Open, it is a substantial desk, equipped with drawers and pigeon holes after the most approved fashion of a big roll top. Metal legs, of the lazy-long principle, unfold to form a support and a supporting rod holds what might be termed the lid in the position of a writing table. To the top is attached a handle, by which the whole may be carried. For suburban who have much writing to do, the portable desk is of inestimable value, as it enables them to carry a supply of all sorts of stationery and to carry on correspondence at any place. Instead of writing their letters and filling out contracts in the public writing room of their hotels, they have simply to open up their own desk in their own room. If the whole space in the desk is not needed for paper, it can be used for samples, or on short trips to carry the clean linen required.

NOVEL EGG-BREAKER

Makes Neat Circular Cut as Knife Would Cut an Apple.

It is interesting to note the variety of inventions which have recently been brought forward to add to the comfort of diners and enhance the pleasure of the hours spent at the table, pleasant as they already are to most of us. A Canadian man has just introduced an egg breaker which reduces to a science the breaking of an egg and makes what was sometimes a painful operation an interesting bit of work. This device consists of an apparatus much like a pair of pliers, with long wire handles and small circular jaws, each equipped with tiny teeth at the end. Above and below the jaws are coiled springs, forming a receptacle the shape of an egg. The egg is placed in these springs and by gripping the handles of the device the jaws press upon it, cutting through the shell as neatly as a man might cut a piece of fruit with a knife. The egg is thus opened not only without soiling the cloth, but without burning the hands, which was the inevitable experience in the old way.

NEW KINK FOR SKATERS

Fifth Roller Aids Them in Stopping and in Fancy Figures.

The fifth wheel to a skater has long been called a typical convenience, but the fifth roller to a roller skate, as arranged by a Pennsylvania man, has several uses. This fifth roller is fastened below the front portion of the skate body and is on an axle that is parallel to the latter. It revolves about this axle in a direction transverse to that taken by the supporting rollers and under normal conditions is held above the floor level. By the means of this extra roller a skater can stop quickly by beating one foot forward in such a manner as to act as a brake, the fifth roller rotating and saving him from a slip so sudden as to unsettle his equilibrium. At the same time it saves the floor. Every skater will find this device a great advantage, as it will enable them to procure about on their toes and cut all sorts of elaborate figures which they dared not attempt before. The extra wheel should also make it easier for beginners to learn how to use roller skates.

SCIENCE NOTES

The second International Anatomical Congress will be held at Brussels, Belgium, in 1910. Brussels offers many advantages for such a congress, and the city has established reputation for its hospitality toward scientific guests.

A census of its membership was recently made by the officers of the Royal Anatomical Society for the purpose of ascertaining the attitude of the members upon the question of the admission of women. The number of voting papers sent out was 870, and 477 replies were received. Two hundred and forty-eight replies were in favor of the admission of women as fellows, and 217 against their admission, but of this number 84 were in favor of their admission as associates.

For the purpose of ascertaining whether the northern part of Alaska is land or sea, a Danish explorer, Captain Ejnar Mikkelsen, has been spending two years in that section. He has recently returned to Copenhagen. His headquarters were at Etah, a small station, from which point many trips were made while exploring the surrounding land and sea.

About 50 miles from the coast the party found mountains from 10,000 feet to 12,000 feet in height, hitherto not marked on any map. As the expedition proceeded, the composition of Mr. Mikkelsen, undertook some geological researches. In March, 1907, Captain Mikkelsen, Mr. Leffingwell and the mate of the tugboat of Bedford, a Norwegian named Westergaard, started in three sledges with 16 dogs on a trip over the ice toward the north. The thermometer showed 50 degrees Centigrade below zero; nevertheless, they often came across big crevasses among the ice flows. About 50 miles from shore they found water which they sounded to the depth of 800 meters without reaching bottom. Fifty miles further on no change was recorded, and the last, having lost sight of the southernmost, they found that deep water exists north of Alaska to a great distance. On the return journey the ice had started drifting and thick fogs enveloped everything, but on May 12, after 55 days of arduous journey, the explorers reached land again, only to find that the ship had been lost in the meantime. The ice pressure had proved too much for her, but the crew had saved all the instruments, food and supplies.

WEEDS AND LOAFERS

Nuisances of Which Every Town Should Rid Itself.

TWO MODERN LIFE-PLAGUES.

Practical Suggestions For Freeing Railway Stations of Loungers—How to Destroy Plants of Noxious Growth. Drummers and Tourists Can Help.

Weeds and loafers are rarely joined together to practical effect. But here is a seemingly hopeless suggestion to bring them together. A reader of a cattle breeder's journal who travels out of Louisville, Ky., sends the subjoined:

I write you with reference to a topic which to my idea is very important—that is, the weeds. My occupation is that of a traveling salesman, and it puts me in a position to see a great deal of what is doing on the farm, at the country store and at the railroad station. I have never got off at any station in my territory and not found men of different races, from the boy in knee pants to the old man, hanging around the depot. Only recently my attention was attracted at the far end of the freight depot while waiting for my train by two men who were getting something out of a box. When they saw me walking toward them they both ran between some freight cars and hid. Upon investigation I found that they were stealing oranges, and I could tell of many other happenings of similar nature that I have seen. Do you not think if you publish an article about weeds and the loafers hanging around the depots, learning nothing and doing nothing, that some railroad official might read the article and start a campaign against such a curse? Then probably the weeds will not be so prosperous.

Our correspondent has touched with his pen two plagues of modern life, says the Free Press, Chicago. Possibly descent from Mother Eve permits us to thrill with pleasure at every opportunity to kill a snake, but we enjoy just as fully the privilege of killing a weed. A hatred of weeds is the beginning of agricultural knowledge. In seasons favorable to the growth of weeds the writer sometimes loses pleasure in his farm, so obtrusive and so aggravating is the presence of weeds. Certainly no farmer can read his title clear to honor in his calling unless he is the unending militant foe of weeds. And the trouble of it all is that many a farm, cleaned of weeds by unrelenting toil, is fouled by the seeds of noxious plants that carry over from a lazy neighbor's untended weed patch.

Here are the loafer and the weed. They are not confined wholly to the railway stations. Railways are the arteries of civilization. They are also the arch distributors of noxious weed seed. Weeds and rats are the concomitants of the civilization which the iron horse carries into pioneer sections. Most railway stations are weeds and most depots have their quota of loafers. Some of the eastern roads years ago planned a broad policy of improvement for their depots, and greenward, spending thousands and thousands of dollars in the removal of weeds and shrubbery and flowers ornament the railway grounds and refresh the eyes of the weary traveler. And, moreover, many railways post conspicuous signs warning loafers off railway grounds and property. We would not want to say that the depot loafer and the weed patch are more common in the south than in the north. We have observed them from Maine to Texas and from Washington to Florida.

Since the problem is known to be general rather than local to any one section, its treatment must be on general lines. Many roads make an earnest effort to keep the weeds moved along their right of way. But over vast stretches of country weeds run riot around railroad grounds and switches and stockyards, with little or no attempt to suppress the nuisance.

It is comparatively easy for the roads to keep loafers off their grounds. An imperative order to the station master to keep the premises free from loafers, followed by visits of an inspector, will quickly cure that evil, but it will not bring the muscles of the loafer in contact with the weeds. The conversion of the loafer into a useful productive member of the community is a problem which has commanded the earnest attention of political economists, sociologists and philanthropists, and yet there are thousands who in some way manage to eat bread without sweating. Such loafers could, indeed, redeem themselves somewhat in the estimation of their neighbors if they would set for themselves the commendable task of cutting the weeds in public places, including railway stations.

Here is a practical suggestion: Let traveling salesmen and tourists and farmers notify the railway passenger agents or division superintendents of grossly neglected weed patches along their lines, signing their names and giving places and dates accurately and in detail, and some beneficial results are apt to follow. In the same way complaints against dirty, ragged loafers around railway stations will certainly result in a sharp order to the depot master to keep his buildings and grounds free from such undesirable gentry. Much may be done with the railroad people if they are approached in the proper way.

Convicts For Outdoor Art Work.
Two hundred convicts will be employed in building the north and south state road near Oklahoma City, Okla., in which unusual attention will be paid to secure artistic landscape effects. The road will run along the Arkansas river and other streams, with particular attention to securing good views. Along the foot of the creek and Cherokee hills curves will be laid out for the purpose of showing the natural beauty of the country.

Always Welcome.

If you want the basket put the kittens in the brass thing. Do not make a noise - it disturbs the family. You will find rubbers in the front hall by that thing which has the umbrellas in it - chiffonier I think they call it, or pergola, or something like that. Please close the door. Yours truly,

MARK TWAIN, HIS HOME AT DANBURY, CONN., AND THE CHARACTERISTIC NOTICE TO BURGLARS POSTED ON MARK'S FRONT DOOR.

Danbury, Conn.—Two professional burglars visited the home of Mark Twain this week, and only the water-fishiness of Miss Lyons, the humorist's private secretary, caused the undoing of the bold crooks. Mark Twain's country villa is called "Innocents at Home," and the burglars evidently read it literally. Thanks to Miss Lyons the burglars never reached their goal. Now Mark has taken his usual precautions against a repetition of the trouble. He has posted this notice on the front door of his house:

"Notice To the Next Burglar: There is nothing but plated ware in this house, now and henceforth. You will find it in that brass thing in the dining room, over the corner by the basket of kittens. If you want the basket, put the kittens in the brass thing. Do not make a noise, it disturbs the family. You will find rubbers in the front hall by that thing which has the umbrellas in it—chiffonier I think they call it, or pergola, or something like that. Please close the door. Yours truly, S. L. CLEMENS."

Her Abiding Youth.
"I am afraid I never will grow up and look like a woman," pouted the bride-to-be. "The other day, while I was having one of my new walking suits fitted and, was insisting that it would have to be finished this week, the tailor asked me: 'When does your school open?' And that frock is a part of my trousseau!"

Woman Vanquished Bull.
Lots of women have committed suicide, but without doubt at the crucial moment any one of them would have run if a bull had appeared upon the scene, and yet a woman in Indiana attacked one the other day with a pitchfork and vanquished the raging animal. Her courage has excited the wonder of every woman who has heard about it.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN OF 1820

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN OF 1820:

James Monroe was re-elected president of the United States as a result of the campaign of 1820. His vote showed a greater tribute to the success of his first administration than any vote since the time of Washington. For the first time since 1789 there was no organized opposition to the republican candidate. Monroe was nominated in a congressional caucus, according to the custom then obtaining, without the semblance of a fight. During his first four years of the presidency he had been connected with much constructive legislation, which has redounded to the everlasting glory and credit of the country. Probably the greatest act of which he could claim the credit was the promulgation of the famous Monroe doctrine, which has lived for a century and will live for centuries to come. The Monroe doctrine was essentially the work of President Monroe himself, backed by the wisdom and judgment of the venerable Madison and the venerable Jefferson, each of whom were heartily in sympathy with its terms and purposes. Monroe's administration had also seen the formulation of the first true protective tariff. It had seen the complete death of all party spirit and factionalism and caused the Monroe administration to be known as the "Era of good feeling."

As a result of this condition of affairs it was impossible that any other outcome should have been apparent than Monroe's succession to himself. He received every electoral vote cast, except that of the aged William Plumer of New Hampshire, a Federalist, who voted against Monroe because he felt that Monroe's succession to himself was determined. Washington alone should have the honor of unanimity. The Federalist party as an organization has now entirely disappeared except in the ranks of the republican party or as a social reminiscence.

The Diligent Ant.
It is not only man who may with advantage take lessons from the ant; the domestic hen would do well in one respect to imitate it. The white ant lays 80,000 eggs a day throughout the season—an amount that may well cause the hen to feel ashamed of her miserable total of three or four eggs a week.

The Speak-Easy.
Beware of the man who whispers his dry nothing into the ear of the willing listener. Ninety-nine times in 100 the whisperer is a thief. He goes around like this: "Shhh! Plimpton is a good fellow, but—Shhh! etc. The whisperer is a backbiter, a spreader of scandal, a maligner, a human hyena. All of us know the whisperer.

BY RIVER ROUTES

That the day may come when boats will load at the Janesville docks and steam down the stream to the Mississippi and even to New Orleans is more than an idle dream. Down at Dixon this week an organization was perfected that will mean much to the development of the Rock river. Men of experience and learning told the hundred and fifty delegates the great possibilities of such a plan and the project took form in a resolution asking congress to appropriate ten thousand dollars to make a survey of the river and prepare for the great work of reclaiming it as a water route. The importance of this work can not be overestimated. It is important that it be carefully considered and that steps be taken to make it a reality, not a mere possibility. Once started it would pass through Janesville, on to Ft. Atkinson and Jefferson and Watertown, and perhaps even farther north. It would be a boon to the manufacturers; it would help the consumer by reducing the freight rates. It would of necessity furnish more power for the electric companies and would mean new industries. Its possibilities are legion. The question is for a concerted action. Beloit and Rockford are anxious for it. Dixon, Stealing, Oregon and other Illinois cities see its value and by standing together in a united front it can be accomplished.

MUCH TO ACCOMPLISH

The time before election is short and there is much to accomplish. In the large cities the general apathy that exists on political questions needs an awakening and the farmers and residents of the smaller cities should be roused to the responsibilities of the situation. There should be no stay-at-home voters on election day. Every franchised citizen should cast his ballot. In Taft and Sherman the republicans have presented a strong team that the voters can support knowing they are voting for a continuation of the policies that have brought the United States to the front. Fanatical waverings of other candidates should not influence the voter to cast a ballot because of sympathy. It is your own bread and butter that is at stake and each and every voter should realize it.

BECOMES AN EDITOR

Senator La Follette is to become an editor and push the pencil, or dictate to a stenographer, his ideas on questions of national importance. He is to follow in the footsteps of Bryan and establish a national magazine as Bryan has. Mr. La Follette as an editor will be welcomed by the fraternity and the first issue of his new paper will be watched with interest.

The Beloit common council is having its hands full these days with problems that are to say the least troublesome, but thus far they have met them with their invincible majority and made the offenders come to time.

Governor Davidson has placed his official hat upon prize-fighting in Milwaukee and the sheriff there says he means to see it is enforced. It is a good move and one which smaller cities will do well to remember.

Rockefeller's anti-mortem statement of his life should not be criticized too harshly as perhaps the old gentleman did not read it over after his stenographer had written it.

England and France hate to have the world at large think them merely interested spectators in the Balkan trouble and may mix before long just to show their real attitude.

Now that Chicago has won the National league pennant and New York has lost the ardent fans can turn their attention to politics.

Reports from various institutions of learning show that the Sophomore classes are living up to the Greek derivation of the word.

Chicago is having an epidemic of faked divorce papers and secret divorces that does not please the newspapers in the least.

Wilbur Wright has shown the gasping Europeans what an American inventor can do when it comes to flying.

Bulgaria is ready to fight if need be, but would far prefer to have its freedom recognized without any further trouble.

Speaker Cannon is having his own troubles, but it must be pleasing to know that "Emmy Jim" still loves him.

Bryan and Taft mix it at a social gathering and then go out and denounce each other on the stump. It was over this.

The Berlin treaty has been smashed up into little pieces and no power on earth can repair it.

Governor Hughes is standing well to the fore front of the political battle just at present.

"COFFIN NAILS."

Cigarettes—crime. The one is the accomplice of the other, says Inspector McCafferty of New York's headquarters detective bureau.

"Fully 85 per cent of the people we arrest," he says, "are cigarette fiends."

Crime—cigarettes. Harry Thaw, the degenerate who shot Stanford White, is a confirmed cigarette smoker.

Thaw sat at a table on Madison Square Garden just before the murder, brooding and smoking cigarette after cigarette. His first request behind the prison bars was for cigarettes.

His nervous system is wrecked by the "papers."

Captain Hains, who shot Anna a few weeks ago, has for years been a slave to cigarette smoking. In describing the man, following his arrest, a reporter says:

"His complexion is yellow, his eyes amber hued and sunken, his lips puffed and cracked and his fingers blotched with the nicotine stains that betray the 'dead' smoker. He is EXTREMELY NERVOUS and IRRITABLE."

Now—The statements of the close connection between cigarettes and crime are not taken from any tract of an anti-tobacco society. They are not the statements of a crank reformer.

The testimony is from police officers, physicians, newspaper reporters—men who know.

Therefore, young man, the advice comes seriously: CUT OUT THE CIGARETTES!

The habit may not lead you directly to commit a crime. But it will put you in a PRIME OF MIND to do it. You will lose control of your nerves. When you can no longer bridle that part of you, you are liable to do desperate things should occasion arise.

Cut out the cigarettes. If you MUST smoke, use a pipe or cigar.

You would be much better off without tobacco, but if you are determined to smoke do not use cigarettes.

Already the slight tremor of your hand shows that the network of delicate nerves by which your foot and hands are wired to your brain is shattered and jangled.

Throw away the "coffin nails." Repair the telegraph lines.

Servia is ready to enter the ring regardless of weight or previous condition of servitude.

The aim of the law is long and reaches far from the scene of the crimes.

Anti-Fat Diet. Fresh fish boiled or broiled chicken, game, lamb or mutton, lean beef and veal (all sparingly), eggs poached on toast or broiled, lettuce, spinach, asparagus, celery, watercress, onions, radishes, white cabbage, apples, ripe fruits of the acid variety.

A glass of pure water or one cup of coffee or tea without cream, milk or sugar, slipped slowly after meals.

A Novel Compliment.

His wig blew off, and was captured and returned by a nice young lady, to whom the gentleman acknowledged his obligation with: "A thousand thanks, my dear. You are by far the most successful hair restorer I ever tried."

Daily Thought.

Never bear more than one trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds—all they ever had, all they have now, and all they expect to have.

Paste This In Your Hat

If your teeth need much attention, you can save $2.00 to $10.00 on the job by having me do your work. I know what I'm talking about. My regular fees are much below those dictated in the agreement. Signed and adhered to by so many of the local dentists.

And my work is not ashamed to have compared with any you may have in your mouth for which you probably have paid twice my fee.

I put out good work, as is evidenced by my sealing teeth nearly every day which are now in the best of repair, which I fixed up five to eight years ago.

Try me for your next Dentistry.

BINGHAM LEAVES ON SIX MONTHS LEAVE

Former Operator at Station 9V Departs Tomorrow for Washington State.

Tomorrow morning Guy Bingham, operator at the third truck at South Janesville, will leave for Tacoma, Wash., and from there will go to a station about twenty miles from there where he is to act as station agent. Mr. Bingham has a six months' leave of absence from the railroad company and if the country out there suits him he will probably remain there. During the past six years that he has lived here he has made many friends, both in the city and among the railroad men, and they will sincerely regret his departure. Mr. Rainey of Milwaukee will take his place during the six months that he will be gone.

UNITED BRETHREN CONTINUE SESSIONS

Bishop Matthews Delivered Strong Address Before Yesterday Morning's Meeting.

Bishop Matthews' address this morning was on the subject, "Character, Reason and Service," drawn from scripture quotations and especially from three little words, "Be, think and do." The first thought was drawn from the word "be," referring to character. Character makes people, not wealth. When we read the sermon on the mount we think Jesus Christ stood for all these presents, so the preacher must stand for what he preaches. The next thought was "Think." Strive for perfection; this is God-like. The last thought was "Do." It places Jesus when we attempt great things. The way to solve the great problems that confront us is to live and illustrate what we teach. The regular business of the conference occupied most of the morning session and a large part of the afternoon. After the report on Sabbath schools Rev. E. C. Peery of Kansas City gave a very instructive and pleasing address on the teacher and his qualifications, showing that the teacher should know what to teach in order that no time be lost. The evening was taken up with subjects on the program.

Today's exercises were according to program, several speakers in the general work being present.

This evening U. G. Humphrey of Milwaukee, superintendent of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League, will give an address.

CONFESSED THIEVES TAKEN TO MICHIGAN

Representative of Sheriff of Eaton County Presented Local Police with a Box of Cigars.

Deputy Sheriff O. A. Halladay of Charlotte, Mich., and E. H. Spears of Eaton Rapids, one of the owners of the store at Porterville which was robbed by Lester Cook and John Jones, arrived here at midnight. They had some of the stolen property which was taken from the youths, and took the culprits back to Michigan this morning. Several other recent burglaries in Porterville may be laid at their door. At the police station this morning the prisoners talked in a careless fashion about their original plans to loot their way to Colorado and the wild west, and the punishment that was likely to be meted out to them when they should get back to the Wolverine state. They will probably be sent to prison as the age limit in the Michigan reformatory is eighteen years. Before departing the deputy sheriff presented the local police officers with a box of "Twilight Club" cigars in token of the Eaton county department's appreciation of the capture.

MR. BRYAN TALKS ABOUT WATERWAY

DEMOCRAT CHIEF SPEAKER AT CHICAGO CONVENTION.

JUDGE TAFT REGISTERED

Preserves His Right to Vote—His Ohio Itinerary Announced—Kern
Replies to Hearst's Charges.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—As William H. Taft was the star attraction at the first session of the deep waterway congress, so William J. Bryan, in his turn, became the point around which all interest centered Thursday, and the Auditorium was well filled when the Nebraskan appeared.

Mr. Bryan's coming was the signal also for another demonstration on the part of the delegates almost identical with that given the Ohioan. The Democratic leader spoke extemporaneously.

One of the first events of the day was the reading of a paper prepared by James J. Hill, the great railway builder, in which he dealt with the mutual interests of rail and water transportation in the construction of a vast system of internal waterways. Mr. Hill was unable to be present, and his paper was read by Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Illinois.

Cincinnati, Oct. 9.—William Howard Taft is a registered voter in Precinct 11, Ward 2, of the city of Cincinnati. The Republican presidential candidate registered Thursday, his last opportunity before the November election. "I was very glad to meet Mr. Bryan under such pleasant circumstances," was the only comment Mr. Taft cared to make on the Chicago banquet of Wednesday night.

Taft's Ohio Itinerary.
A. I. Vorys Thursday night announced the details of Judge Taft's Ohio Itinerary. The start will be made from Cincinnati Monday morning at seven o'clock, with short stops that forenoon at Morrow, Wilmington, Washington Court House, Circleville, Lancaster, and New Lexington. The first afternoon stop will be at Zanesville at one o'clock, with subsequent stops at New Comerstown, Canal Dover and Massillon. The night meeting will be at Akron.

The Taft special will leave Akron Tuesday morning and there will be short stops that day at Barberton, Wadsworth, Sterling, Medina, Grafton, Elyria, Lorain, Newberg, Ravenna and Alliance. East Liverpool gets the night meeting. Leaving that city the morning following, Judge Taft will make short speeches on Wednesday at Wellsville, Cadiz and Steubenville. The Wednesday night meeting will be at Wheeling.

Kern Replies to Hearst.
Pineville, Va., Oct. 9.—John W. Kern, after reading the published attack upon him by W. H. Hearst in a speech in Los Angeles, Cal., gave out a statement in which he said that he had repeatedly stated the facts about his employment by the Big Four railroad in connection with certain damage suits, which employment, he said, would be understood by any fair-minded man. Concerning his connection with the French Lick Springs Hotel Company, he said that with other counsel he was employed to defend suits involving forfeiture of charter and the appointment of a receiver and that he and his associates served the corporations as he would have served any other client. Similar service was rendered at the same time to the West Baden Springs Company, with which Thomas Taggart had no connection.

Nebraska Attorney Disbarred.
Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 9.—Capt. Allen G. Fisher of Chadron was disbarred by the supreme court Thursday for a period of one year. Attorney General Thompson started the disbarment suit at the request of the Nebraska legislature. Fisher was charged with raising a claim against the state from $1,500 to $11,500 and presenting it to the legislature.

Union Veteran Legion Thus Provides for Its Continuance.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The national encampment of the Union Veteran Legion adjourned Thursday to meet next year in Washington. Death has been thinning the ranks of the legion during the last few years, and the problem of its continuance was solved when it was decided to admit to membership the oldest son of any member.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: National commander, Capt. Thomas J. Shannon, Washington; senior vice-commander, J. S. Du Shane, New Castle, Pa.; junior vice-commander, W. H. Simpson, Camden, N. J.; quartermaster general, Lieut. Benjamin D. Minor, Indianapolis, Ind.; surgeon general, C. W. Bourne, Buffalo, N. Y.

Minerals in South Russia.
South Russia has among its valuable minerals rock salt, coal, coprolites, kaolin, sands for glass making and other purposes, manganese and iron ores, the latter being easily first in importance, free of phosphorus and with little sulphur.

Sparrow as a Songster.
It is a curious fact that, though the house-sparrow does not naturally sing, yet hand-reared house-sparrows have been made, by association with bull-dozers, to acquire the song of that bird—a truly astonishing instance of hidden or latent capacity.

Do You Know the Effects of Eyestrain?

Many people are subject to headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, and sundry nervous troubles due to EYESTRAIN. They do not realize that a pair of GLASSES well fitted by a competent refracturist will relieve them of these distressing troubles. If you are subject to any of these troubles due to EYESTRAIN you should not delay having your eyes examined at once by

BUSINESS MEETING OF AID SOCIETY

Held at Home of Former President and Officers for Ensuing Year Chosen.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Afton, Oct. 8.—One of the most progressive and widespread organizations in this place is the Ladies' Aid society, which held its annual business meeting at the home of former President Mrs. George W. Robt last Wednesday afternoon and elected officers for the ensuing year. The society, which now numbers 28 members, has had a successful year and the books show a surplus of $50 in the treasury.

Among the many things accomplished by the society, which were mentioned by the president, it was noted that the society has been instrumental in the purchase of the Baptist church property.
Two years ago the members raised the necessary funds to re-paper and repaint the auditorium and more recently they assisted generously in helping meet the expenses incurred in the rearrangement of the means of entrance to the building. Just now the subject of installing a furnace in the church edifice is being considered and the society will plan to assist materially in this work. The society will also have a bazaar on Sunday this year, which will probably be held at Brinkman's hall. The following are the officers elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs.
Edith Woodcock; vice-president, Mrs.
M. A. Hayner; secretary, Mrs. Mattie E. Miller; treasurer, Mrs. Louisa Brinkman.

Rev. L. G. Catchpole of Janesville, representative in this district of the Children's Home Finding association, occupied the Baptist pulpit here last Sunday morning.

ILLINOIS SHERIFF
IS AFTER TWO MEN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Oct. 8.—Sheriff Miller of Stephenson county, Illinois, was here with warrants for the arrest of Harry Smith and Eddie DeMar, serving sentences in the county jail, charging the young men with the robbery of the E. D. Mahony hardware store in Orangeville. DeMar was arrested on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon after he had leveled his pistol at Engineer Will Smith on the Illinois Central road at Chicago. His pistol was charged with vagrancy. It is presumed they reached the Orangeville store on Tuesday night of last week, the night prior to their arrest by Deputy Sheriff Chris Zwifol.

Edith Bussay, the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bus-say of this city, who ran away from home on last Wednesday morning and was not found until Sunday, has been given over to the custody of Aid and Mrs. E. F. Bauman by the county judge. It was charged in a petition to the court by the parents that the child is incorrigible, but the court held that such incorrigibility was due to the conditions in the home.

The judge did not consider it necessary to send the child away to a state home as long as Aid Bauman, who is a distant relative, is willing to rear the girl.

Wages Were Not forthcoming.

When their wages were not forthcoming promptly at noon yesterday, as had been agreed upon, the Italian laborers employed in digging the South Second street sewer trench laid down their tools and refused to resume work until another minute. They remained idle all the afternoon. In the evening the matter was adjusted to their satisfaction and work was resumed this morning.

acknowledge himself beaten had to shout out "Sufficient." After a full hour's hard pugilistic work the Irishman at last roared out, "Sufficient!"

"Ma conscience!" said the Scotchman, "If I havena been

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS.
Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

"Well," admitted Drina frankly, "of course we can't tell yet how interesting you are because we don't know you. We are trying to be polite—and, in a three whizzer, turning on the smaller of the boys—'Withrop, take your finger out of your mouth and stop staring at me!' Billy, you make him behave himself."

The blond haired M. F. H. reached for his younger brother. The infant culprit avoided him and sullenly withdrew the sucked finger, but not his fascinated gaze.

"I want to know who he is," he hissed in a loud aside.

"No do I," admitted a tiny maid in black-out skirts.

"Well," said Selwyn, "as a matter of fact and record, I am a sort of relative of yours, a species of avuncular relation."

"What is that?" asked Drina coldly.

"That," said Selwyn, "means that I'm more or less of an uncle to you. Hope you don't mind. You don't have to entertain me, you know."

"An uncle?" repeated Drina.

"Our uncle?" echoed Billy. "You are not our soldier uncle, are you? You are not our Uncle Phillip, are you?"

"It amounts to that," admitted Selwyn.

One by one the other children came forward to greet this proudest new uncle whom the younger among them had never before seen and whom Drina, the oldest, had forgotten except as that faded warrior of legendary exploits whose name and fame had become cherished classics of their nursery.

"I infer," observed Selwyn blandly, "that your father and mother are not at home. Perhaps I'd better stop in later."

"But you are going to stay here, aren't you?" exclaimed Drina in dismay. "Don't you expect to tell us stories? Don't you expect to stay here?"

They looked around at the rustle of skirts. In this remarkable house who occasionally wore copper tinted hair and black fox fur?

"No, Ellen does. Won't you please wiggle?"

"Who is Ellen?"

"Ellen? Why—don't you know who Ellen is?"

"No, I don't," began Captain Selwyn, when a delighted shout from the children swung him toward the door again. His sister, Mrs. Gerard, stood there in carriage gown and sables, radiant with surprise.

"Phil! You! Exactly like you, Phil! do you remember your Uncle Phillip? She doesn't remember. You can't expect her to recollect. She is only twelve, Phil!"

"I remember one thing," observed Drina solemnly.

Brother and sister turned toward her in pride and delight, and the child went on: "My Aunt Alice; I remember her. She was so pretty," concluded Drina, nodding thoughtfully in the effort to remember more. "Uncle Phillip, where is she now?"

But her uncle seemed to have lost his voice as well as his color, and Mrs. Gerard's gloved fingers tightened on the lapels of his coat.

"I never dreamed," she began—"the child has never spoken of—of her from that time to this! I never dreamed she could remember!"

"I don't understand what you are talking about, mother," said Drina, but her pretty mother caught her by the shoulders, striving to speak lightly.

"Where in the world is Bridget, child? Where is Katie? And what is all this I hear from Dawson? It can't be possible that you have been fox hunting all over the house again! Your nurses know perfectly well that you are not to hunt anywhere except in your own nursery. Such a household, Phil! Everybody incompetent, including me; everything topsy turvy, and all five dogs perfectly possessed to lie on that plush rug in the music room. Have they been there today, Drina, while you were practicing?"

"Yes, and there are some new spots, mother. I'm very sorry."

"Take the children away!" said Mrs. Gerard to the nurses. She bent over, kissing each culprit as she passed out. "What do you think of them? You never before saw the three youngsters. You saw Drina when you went east, and Billy was a few months old. What do you think of them? Honestly, Phil?"

"All to the good, Ninette; very ornamental. Drina and that Josephine kid are real beauties. I—er—take to Billy tremendously. He told me that he'd locked up his nurses. I ought to have interfered. It was really my fault, you see."

"And you didn't make him let them out? You are not going to be very good morally for my young. Tell me, Phil, have you seen Austin?"

"I went to the trust company, but he was attending a directors' confab."

personating a madrone white pensive slivers chased themselves over Drina, whom he was stalking.

And it was while all were passionately intent upon the pleasing and snake-like progress of their uncle that a young girl in furs, ascending the stairs two at a time, peeped perfunctorily into the nursery as she passed the hallway and halted amazed.

Selwyn, sitting up ruffled and cross-legged on the floor, after having loaded Drina to everybody's exquisite satisfaction, looked around at the sudden rustle of skirts to catch a glimpse of a vanishing figure, a glimmer of ruddy hair and the white curve of a youthful face half buried in a muff.

Mortified, he got to his feet, glanced out into the hallway and began adjusting his attire.

"No, you don't!" he said mildly. "I decline to perform again. If you want any more wriggling you must accomplish it yourselves. Drina, has your governess—by any unfortunate chance—er—red hair?"

"No," said the child, "and won't you please crawl across the floor and hold me—just once more?"

"Hold me?" insisted Billy. "I haven't been mangled yet!"

"Let Billy assassinate somebody himself. And, by the way, Drina, are there any maids or nurses or servants?"

"I infer," observed Selwyn blandly, "that your father and mother are not at home. Perhaps I'd better stop in later."

"But you are going to stay here, aren't you?" exclaimed Drina in dismay. "Don't you expect to tell us stories? Don't you expect to stay here?"

Mortified, he got to his feet, glanced out into the hallway and began adjusting his attire.

How is he? He's prosperous anyhow, I observe," with a humorous glance around the elaborate hallway which they were traversing.

"Don't dare laugh at us!" smiled his sister. "I wish we were back in Tenth street. But so many children came—Billy, Josephine, Withrop and Tina—and the Tenth street house wasn't half big enough, and a dreadful speculative builder built this house and persuaded Austin to buy it. You're going to stay here?"

"No; I'm at the Holland."

"Of course you're to live with us. You've resigned from the service, haven't you?"

He looked at her sharply, but did not reply.

A curious flash of telepathy passed between them. She hesitated; then: "You once promised Austin and me that you would stay with us."

"But, Nina—"

"No, no, no! Wait," pressing an electric button. "Watson, Captain Selwyn's luggage is to be brought here immediately from the Holland. Immediately!" And to Selwyn: "Austin will not be at home before half past 6. Come up with me now and see your quarters, a perfectly charming place for you, with your own smoking room and dressing closet and bath. Wait, we'll take the elevator—as long as we have one."

Smilingly protesting, yet touched by the undisguised sincerity of his welcome, he suffered himself to be led into the elevator—a dainty white and rose-tinted affair. His sister adjusted a tiny lever; the car moved smoothly upward and presently stopped, and they emerged upon a wide landing.

"Here," said Nina, throwing open a door. "Isn't this cozy, eh? I suppose anything you don't like about it? If there is, tell me frankly."

"Little else," he said, imprisoning both her hands. "It is a paradise, but I don't intend to come here and squint on my relatives, and I won't."

"Phil! You are common!"

"Oh, I know you and Austin think you want me."

"All right, dear. I'll—it's awfully generous of you—so I'll pay you a visit for a little while. You are very kind, Ninette. He sat partly turned from her, staring at the sunny window. Presently he said his hand back along the bed covers until it touched and tightened over hers. And in silence she raised it to her lips.

They remained so for awhile, he still partly turned from her, his perplexed and narrowing gaze fixed on the window, she pressing his clenched hand to her lips, thoughtful and silent.

"Before Austin comes," he said at length, "let's get the thing over and buried as long as it will stay buried."

"Alice is here," she said gently. "Did you know it?"

He nodded.

"You know, of course, that she's married Jack Rutherford?"

He nodded again.

"Are you on leave, Phil, or have you really resigned?"

"Resigned."

"I knew it," she sighed.

He said: "As I did not defend the suit I couldn't remain in the service. There's too much talk about us anyway—about us who are appointed from civil life. And then to have that happen."

"Phil, do you still care for her?"

"I am sorry for her."

After a painful silence his sister said: "Could you tell me how it began, Phil?"

"How it began? I don't know that either. When Danward's command took the field I went with the scouts. Alice remained in Manila. Rutherford was there for Fane, Harmon & Co. That's how it began, I suppose, and it's a rotten climate for morals, and that's how it began."

"Only that?"

"We had had differences. It's been one misunderstanding after another. If you mean was I mixed up with another woman—no! She knew that."

"She was very young, Phil."

He nodded. "I don't blame her."

"Couldn't anything have been done?"

"If it could, neither she nor I did it or know how to do it, I suppose. It went wrong from the beginning. It was founded on truth. She had been engaged to Harmon, and she threw him over for Boots Lansing. Then I came along. Boots behaved like a thoroughbred. That is all there is to it—experience, romance, trouble. She couldn't stand me, she couldn't stand the life, the climate, the incognito, hence, the absence of what she was accustomed to. She was dead tired of it all. I can understand that. And we went under, that's all—lighting each other heart and soul to the end. Is she happy with Rutherford? I never knew him and never cared to. I suppose they go about in town among the yellow set. Do they?"

"Yes. I've met Alice once or twice. She was perfectly composed, formal, but unembarrassed. She has shifted her milieu somewhat. It began with the influx of Rutherford's friends from the 'yellow' section of the younger married set—the Grebels, Fanes, Minsters and Dolmores-Carnes. By the way, I'm dipping into the younger set myself tonight on Ellen's account. I brought her out Thursday, and I'm giving a dinner for her tonight."

"Who's Ellen?" he asked.

"Ellen? Why, don't you—why, of course you don't know yet that I've taken Ellen for my own. Ellen is Molly Errol's daughter, and the courts appointed Austin and me guardians for her and for her brother Gerald."

"Oh?"

"Now is it clear to you?"

"Yes," he said, thinking of the tragedy which had left the child so utterly alone in the world save for her brother and a distant kinship by marriage with the Grebels.

For awhile he sat brooding, arms loosely folded, immersed once more in his own troubles.

"It seems a shame," he said, "that a family like ours, whose name has always spotted decency, should find themselves entangled in the very things their race has always hated and managed to avoid. And through me too."

"But no disgrace touches you, dear," she said triumphantly.

"I've been all over that, too," he said, with quiet bitterness. "You are partly right; nobody cares in this town. Even though I did not defend the suit, nobody cares. And there's no disgrace, I suppose, if nobody cares enough even to condemn. Divorce is no longer noticed; it is a matter of ordinary occurrence, a matter of routine in some sets. Who cares except decent folk? And they only think it's a pity and wouldn't do it themselves. If Alice found that she cared for Rutherford I don't blame her. Laws and statutes can't govern such matters. If she found she no longer cared for me, I could not blame her. But two people imprinted have only one chance in this world—to live their tragedy through with dignity. That is absolutely all life holds for them; beyond that, outside of that dead line, treachery to self and race and civilization! That is my conclusion after a year's experience in hell. He rose and began to pace the floor, fidgeting with his mustache. "Law? Can a law which I do not accept let me loose to live it all again with another woman?"

She said slowly, her hands folded in her lap: "It is well you've come to me at last. You've been turning round and round in that wheeled cage until you think you've made enormous progress, and you haven't. Dear, listen to me. What you honestly believe to be unselfish and high minded adherence to principle is nothing but the electric reasoning of a hurt mind—an intelligence still numbed from shock, a mental and physical life forced by sheer courage into mechanical routine. I tell you your life is not finished. It is not yet begun. You need new duties, new faces, new scenes, new problems. You shall have them. Dear, believe me, few men as young as you, as attractive, as human, as lovable, as affectionate as you, willfully ruin their lives because of a hurt pride which they mistake for conscience. You will understand that when you become contented. Now kiss me and tell me you're much obliged, for I hear Austin's voice on the stairs."

"Well, we've hurried it now," breathed Selwyn. "You're all right, Nina, from your own standpoint, and I'm not going to make a stalling nuisance of myself. No fear, little sister. Hello—turning swiftly—there's that preposterous husband of yours."

They exchanged a firm hand clasp, Austin Gerard, big, smooth-shaven, humorously inclined toward the ruddy heaviness of successful middle age; Selwyn, lean, bronzed, erect and direct in all the powerful symmetry and perfect health of a man within sight of maturity.

"Nina's good enough to want me for a few days," began Selwyn, but his big brother-in-law laughed scornfully: "A few days! We've got you now!" And to his wife: "Nina, I suppose I'm due to leave over those infernal kids before I can have a minute with your brother. Are they in bed yet? All right, Phil, we'll be down in a minute. There's tea and things in the library. Make Ellen give you some."

GREAT FLEET IN PARADE

FORMS PART OF PHILADELPHIA CELEBRATION.

Several Hundred Craft Pass Around Anchorage of North Atlantic Battleships.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—The scene of the city's week festivities climaxed Thursday from the long stretches of Broad street, the parade ground of the pageants, to the water-front, where a river fleet unique in the history of water displays was held. In the calendar of the seven-day celebration Thursday was children's and naval day. The entire third squadron of the North Atlantic fleet, organized by the newly-completed battleships and armored cruisers that have gone into commission since the first and second squadrons started on their record-breaking cruise around the world, has been at anchor in the Delaware since Saturday last and was the center of Thursday's unusual picture.

Starting shortly after one o'clock Thursday afternoon, a flotilla of some 200 excursion boats, coasting steamers, ferry boats, yachts, city craft, tugs and power launches, steamed from an assembly point far down the river and passed in review around the anchorage grounds of the men-of-war. All of the boats in the seven long divisions of the water procession were gay with flags.

Thursday night the naval vessels were illuminated and there was a fireworks display of an hour's duration along three miles of the water-front.

ACCUSED OF AN OLD MURDER.

W. L. Woolley, Prominent Capitalist of Oklahoma, is Arrested.

McAlester, Okla., Oct. 8.—W. L. Woolley, principal owner of the town of Stewart and a prominent Oklahoma capitalist, was taken to Stigler under arrest, charged with complicity in the murder of a man named Anderson in 1881. Woolley was sitting in a room with Anderson when the latter was killed. Woolley was arrested at the time and taken to Fort Smith, Ark., but was discharged by Gen. Wheeler, United States commissioner. Woolley is at a loss to understand the revival of the case.

Killed in Motor Cycle Race.

Washington, Oct. 8.—During a motor cycle race at the Copperthill track at Burke, Va., Thursday, James Connelly of Washington, one of the participants, ran into a post and received injuries which later resulted in his death at the Emergency hospital in this city. Connelly was 18 years old.

THE GAZETTE CONTEST

The Districts, the Prizes and Where They Will Go.

Candidates compete only with those residing in their own district, but are privileged to secure support and work for votes in any district. District No. 1—Includes all territory lying within the corporate limits of the city of Jamesville.

District No. 2—Includes all territory lying outside the city of Jamesville.

WHERE THE PRIZES WILL GO AND WHAT THEY ARE.

In District No. 1—One handsome diamond ring to the lady receiving the highest vote and a fine solid gold watch to the lady receiving the second highest vote. One handsome diamond ring to the gentleman receiving the highest vote and a fine solid gold watch to the gentleman receiving the second highest vote.

In District No. 2—One handsome diamond ring to the lady receiving the highest vote and a fine solid gold watch to the lady receiving the second highest vote. One handsome diamond ring to the gentleman receiving the highest vote and a fine solid gold watch to the gentleman receiving the second highest vote.

THE GRAND PRIZE—Will be a trip to Europe, visiting Scotland, England and France, including all necessary expenses. The winner will accompany a party conducted by Thos. Cook and Son. This trip will go to the candidate—lady or gentleman—having the highest vote in the entire contest. No candidate can win two prizes. The first prize—diamond ring—in the district where the grand prize is won, will go to the one having the second highest vote; the second prize to the one coming in third.

Read The Contest Rules Again

Candidates must be members of a church, lodge, club, labor, literary or social organization holding meetings in the city of Jamesville or vicinity, or be endorsed by some business or professional man in this vicinity. They may be of either sex, but must be at least 18 years old. The voting will be by ballots clipped from the Daily Gazette and by voting certificates issued with subscriptions for the Daily Gazette.

Each nomination ballot clipped from the paper will count five votes for the lady or gentleman named thereon when received at the office before the date of expiration given on the ballot.

Certificates for either a lady or gentleman contestant will be issued with receipts for subscriptions. Ladies and gentlemen do not compete with each other except for the Grand Prize.

Enter your name or that of a friend and get a good start for Europe.

At the close of the balloting the returns will be canvassed by a committee of well-known business men from the various districts, whose standing in the community is unquestioned.

The balloting began with the issue of Sept. 17th and will close at 8 o'clock p. m. November 2nd, 1908.

No employee of the Gazette or member of any employee's family will be eligible as a candidate.

The decision of the contest committee in making awards of prizes shall be final and conclusive.

All contestants in accepting nominations must agree to the above rules and regulations.

In the event of a tie between candidates for any of the prizes, the value of such will be equally divided between them.

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS DIES.

Son of Famous Illinoisan Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Stephen Arnold Douglas, son of the famous Illinois senator and orator of the noted Lincoln-Douglas debates, died suddenly Thursday night at this residence, 81 Twenty-second street. The immediate cause of his death was heart disease.

For several years he had been afflicted with rheumatism and was forced to give up his law practice for a time, but a year ago he resumed legal work. A week ago he complained of an attack of indigestion, but Thursday morning he declared he was feeling much improved.

After dinner he went out for a walk and when he did not return at the accustomed hour his wife went out to look for him. She found him in Peoria avenue in a weakened condition. She rushed him home and he sank into a chair. In a few minutes his head fell to one side. She summoned Dr. L. F. Murray, but before the physician arrived life had passed away.

HANNAHAN LOSES HIS PLACE.

Carter of Peoria Elected Grand Master of Locomotive Firemen.

Columbus, O., Oct. 8.—W. S. Carter of Peoria, Ill., was elected grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen Thursday to succeed John J. Hannahan. Mr. Carter has been secretary of the organization for a number of years. Mr. Hannahan has been an officer in the brotherhood for 23 years. He was elected vice-grand master in 1885 and was elected grand master six years ago.

St. Paul, Minn., was chosen as the place for the next meeting.

Loving and Serving.

So long as we love we serve; so long as we are loved by others I would say that we are indispensable; and no man is useless while he has a friend.—Stevenson.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, October 9, 1868.—Their Organization Completed.—The colored men of this city have been successful in organizing a company of Tammars, and have elected J. L. Scott, Captain; J. B. Hall, 1st Lieut.; and A. Pollock, 2nd Lieut. They will send immediately for their dress and be ready for active duty the first of next week. A most commonable spirit has been shown by these men and we know they will do good service until the campaign closes.

Miss Scribner's Seminary.—We learn with pleasure that Miss Scribner has secured the services of Rev. L. W. Davis of Beloit, who will remove to this place and become permanently identified with the school as Rector and Professor. Mr. Davis is a gentleman well known through the State as an educator. He was the founder of the excellent school at Oronoco and is in every way qualified to assist Miss Scribner. We understand that, upon the recommendation of Bishop Armistead, she has changed the name of her school to "St. Mary's Hall."

Discharged.—The men arrested for assaulting Mr. Grimes on our streets some time since, and their examinations this afternoon and were discharged. No evidence was adduced implicating them of the crime.

The Meeting Last Night.—The republican meeting was well attended, and the audience was favored with a good speech from Mr. Winslow, and with good vocal and instrumental music.

Janesville Men in Oshkosh.—Messrs. L. C. Sloan and Isaac Rogers of this city, who were in Oshkosh, yesterday, in attendance upon the Supreme Court, each made brief speeches in a republican meeting held there last evening.

The Overland Mail to the Pacific.—The new overland mail arrangement to California went into operation on the first of the present month. Congress wisely repealed that section of the postal laws which required prepayment of newspapers and printed matter, at letter postage rates, for the overland route. The first complete mail is now on its way to the Pacific coast by this route.

WHAT STOPPED HIM.

"While I am aware of the fact," said the Philadelphia drummer, "that no president has ever been given three terms, I am not sure that Mr. Roosevelt would not have been made an exception but for an article of mine in Vermont. He lives in a village, and in the summer he has a strawberry patch from which he picks and sells about fifty quarts of strawberries at six cents a quart. I was up there last March, and among the things we talked of was the Panama canal. At least, I tried to get him to talk of it as a great international thing, but he had no interest in the matter until I said:

"Then John, this matter concerns you personally. It may make a great change in your future income."

"I can't see how," was his reply. "I'll tell you. When they get the canal in operation they can bring strawberries through from Asphawill for two cents a quart, and sell 'em right in this town for three. Where will be your market then?"

JOHN KIRBY.

Mammoth Beets of New Mexico. From Mora comes a story of sugar beets more than two feet long and weighing only a trifle less than 12 pounds. There are said to be two of these monster tubers there, and it is claimed they were grown on the farm of a native who lives several miles up the valley from the town of Mora. It is the intention of the Mora county council to send these monster beets to the irrigation congress, Las Vegas, N. M.

Irish Wit.

An Irishman who was trying to sell his horse was asked by the possible purchaser if the animal was timid.

"Not at all, at all, not. He sleeps in a dark stable all alone every night, which is the same as saying, not, that he's a brave fellow," replied the Irishman. And he sold the horse.
